Dear Parents and Caregivers,

Firstly, can I thank you for the messages expressing support for the College and the work of the staff in providing for our boys' care and learning, at this time. I have passed these messages on to our staff.

I have been in communication with some parents who have decided to keep their children at home and I do appreciate there are reasons for doing so. Please continue to advise the College of absenteeism.

At this point, given the teaching staff are currently fully engaged in the delivery of the curriculum and the day-to-day running of the school, it is not possible for them to provide work to individual students who are not at school.

Please encourage your sons to continue their learning by checking their OneNote classrooms regularly for work and resources located there. Students can find work in the same way they do when they begin lessons in class. If they cannot locate any work they should revise recent topics and use any e-text books they have available to them.

It is likely that we will all experience an extended time of disruption, but we will remain positive and look for new ways of living the College spirit. Our student leaders are currently developing creative opportunities for engagement and the celebration of community.

Kind regards

Andrew Watson
Principal
